A LIST OF THE MANUSCRIPTS RECENTLY DEPOSITED IN THE VIRGINIA STATE LIBRARY BY THE STATE AUDITOR.

BY EARL G. SWEM

By authority of chapter 255 of the Code, permission was kindly granted to the officials of the State Library by the Auditor, Mr. C. Lee Moore, to examine the non-current manuscript records and documents of the Auditor's office, stored in the basement of the State Library Building. These documents were in packing boxes under the stairway and in dark and poorly-ventilated alcoves, entirely inaccessible to historical students. Upon opening the boxes it was found that many of the documents still remained in good order in the packages in which they were originally filed, and that many of the package labels were intact and legible. There were, however, thousands of loose sheets, which had been mingled with the packages without any regard to the subject matter. Before beginning the work of examination, it was not supposed that much, if anything, could be found of the period before 1776, and the examination disclosed only about 150 documents of this period. On account of the difficulty encountered in examining the papers in dimly-lighted rooms, much of the material was carried up at once to the stack room of the library, where it was examined and a careful selection made. Four months were spent in the work. One hundred and seventeen boxes of an average size of 4 x 3 x 2 feet were opened and their contents carried to the stack room. An estimate of the total number of pieces retained and deposited is between 650,000 and 700,000, of which 10,000 are records in book form. The documents were at once roughly grouped and their titles written in the accession book. The list printed in the present Bulletin is based upon this hasty and preliminary classification, and is not presumed to be final. It was thought advisable to give to students at once some knowledge of what had been deposited.

There were three series of documents which were not transferred, for the reason that they were relatively unimportant and too voluminous. These series were: a file of criminal charges of each county from 1782 to date; a file of Treasurer's receipts from 1782 to date; a file of bonds of county officials beginning in 1782.

In 1853 an act went into effect requiring the commissioner of each county to make annually a detailed report by names of all births, deaths, and marriages, and to file such report in the office of the Auditor. These reports were found to be in a most confused condition, having been packed in the boxes loosely, with no arrangement, and in the midst of unrelated matter. They were all examined, and grouped by counties. This set of reports was almost complete for nearly every county down to 1898, when so much of the registration act as applied to births and deaths was repealed. At the request of the Auditor these reports were all returned to his office on the ground that they could not yet be considered non-current documents. They constitute a most important collection for the investigator in vital statistics, and in genealogy.

The land books, or lists of the owners of land in each county, prepared annually by the county commissioner for purposes of taxation, are still in the Auditor's storage room. The books begin with 1782, and are almost complete to date. There were three or four hundred land books found in the investigation carried on this summer. It was thought likely that these books would fill up the gaps in the Auditor's file, and they were accordingly returned to him.

The sets of books known as the "Personal Property Books," which filled probably one-third of the packing cases examined, were all deposited in the library. The list of those deposited, arranged by counties, will be found in this Bulletin. Each book contains the names of all those taxed as owning personal property in any county in any year. In certain years the returns were made in the most minute detail. Of this series there are no books now deposited in the library later than 1865; the later books are in the Auditor's files. The series for each county begins with 1782, if the county had been organized at that time. This set of personal property books constitutes the most authentic and comprehensive source material for the study of the economic and social history of Virginia from 1782 to the close of the War between the States in existence. Its value for genealogical purposes also is inestimable.

Of much interest also in this deposit is the collection of George Rogers Clark papers, containing from 20,000 to 25,000 pieces, and including much of the very highest value in the history of the Northwest.

Agent for Revolutionary Claims. One package of papers of the State agent for Revolutionary claims. 100 pieces. Accession entry 13197. 1

Agents of the Commonwealth. 2 packages of letters and accounts of agents of Commonwealth. 1820-1831. 200 pieces per package. Accession entry 13304. 1a
